

Victoria Landry, DNP
Certified as Adult Nurse Practitioner

With a Doctorate of Nursing Practice, Victoria Landry believes in the power of patient-centered care. She says, "I treat everyone who walks into my exam room – or who I might see as a patient in their own home – as I would a friend or a family member. I want to get to know all the various aspects that might affect their health and wellness, so that I can treat them as a whole person, rather than just an illness or a set of symptoms."

With a love of science and an interest in medicine from an early age, Victoria teams with her patients to improve their health by learning more about them with each new visit. She feels a reward in helping cure an acute illness, making a referral to an appropriate specialist, and helping the patient move along the health care continuum.

As someone who loves to hike and cycle – as well as bake healthy goodies! – during her time away from her patients, Victoria adds, "I think movement is good medicine. I advise my patients to 'eat the rainbow' to make sure they are getting the variety they need. And if they are outside as much as I like to be, I remind them to stay well hydrated and wear sunscreen!"

Victoria is also a part-time, online adjunct faculty member for her alma mater's Accelerated BSN Program at Northeastern University in Boston. Even so, she makes sure to find time for her husband and their two Cairn Terriers.
